Cult Leader Manson Begins Attorney Role

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Cult leader Charles M. Manson, accused in the Sharon Tate multiple killings, came to court for the first time as his own attorney wearing a red velvetine shirt and an embroidered vest.

He carried a fistful of motions, including one asking that he be permitted to form a "family" of co-counsel consisting of fellow inmates at the county jail.

Wins Few, Loses Few

He won a few and lost a few in his Wednesday appearance.

Manson, 35, and four other persons who police say were members of his nomadic hippie-type "family," are charged in the deaths of actress Sharon Tate and four others at her Bel Air home last August. The same five and another former "family" member are accused in the slayings the next night of wealthy grocer Leno LaBianca and his wife.

Talks With Judge

The slight, brightly attired Manson carried several long, yellow pencils as he appeared before Superior Court Judge George M. Dell to enter a plea on the charges. Instead, he and the judge carried on a 40-minute conversation as Manson presented his motions.

Defendant Outnumbered

Manson said, "The people of California have the defendant outnumbered in legal assistance and such action would not be fair play."

"It certainly is an interesting document," Dell said, denying the motion.

In other motions, Manson asked for:

1. A continuance. Granted until Jan. 28.

2. Disclosure to him of evidence held by the district attorney. Denied, pending a plea to the charges.

3. A book, "How to Cross-Examine Witnesses." Granted.

4. Unlimited telephone calls from the jail. Denied.

5. A tape recorder to use in his cell. Decision deferred.

6. Services of a private investigator. Granted, to a $750 cost limit.

Motion Withdrawn

7. A stop to photographing of his visitors by sheriff's officers for identification. Dell said he would grant the request but warned Manson that lack of identification could lead to problems and delays at the trial. Manson withdrew the motion.

King Cited

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken said Wednesday "no one in recent American history has so typified the movement toward full and equal citizenship for all our people as Dr. Martin Luther King."

The Michigan Legislature will be considering a resolution to designate Jan. 15 of each year as Martin Luther King Jr. birthday anniversary," the governor said. "I welcome such a proposal..."

Nigeria Sticks To Relief Ban

LAGOS (AP) — The Nigerian government has said no to aid from four white governments and all private agencies that helped Biafra. But it said it is consulting "a number of friendly governments for immediate requests for relief."

The ban affects the governments of France, Portugal, Rhodesia, and South Africa as well as such groups as Caritas, the Roman Catholic relief agency; Joint Church Aid, grouping a number of agencies; Canafield of Canada and the French and Nordic Red Cross.

The government said nothing about the four black African governments that recognized Biafra as an independent state: Zambia, Tanzania, Gabon and the Ivory Coast.

The government also put the persona non grata tag on "all foreign relief workers who operated illegally in the secessionist enclave" and said they would not be permitted in Nigeria. Presumably this means expulsion for those still in what was Biafra.

Lord Hunt, who headed the British team that conquered Mt. Everest, arrived in Lagos today with a committee to work out plans for British relief. His government has allocated $12 million for aid and 10 tons of relief supplies are waiting in London for airlift to Nigeria. The Nigerian first refused to allow them to be brought in on military planes, then submitted a request for extra medical supplies to be included in a civilian airlift.

The U. S. State Department announced that Maj. Gen. Yabu Gowon, the Nigerian chief of state, told a U. S. envoy that the Nigerian government will not hesitate to call on the United States for assistance. The department said the Nigerian leader expressed warm appreciation to the U. S. diplomat, Assistant Secretary of State David Newsom, for the aid offered by the United States.

Sen. Fitzgerald Replaces Levin As Majority Whip

LANSING (AP) — The oldest member of the Michigan Senate, a ruddy-faced Irishman known as "Fitz," has been elected Democratic leader of the upper chamber.

Sen. George S. Fitzgerald of Grosse Pointe Park—who is 68—won a unanimous caucus vote

Wednesday to succeed Sen. Sander Levin of Berkley in the minority leadership post. Levin stepped down to look into chances of grabbing his party's nomination for governor this year.

Some capitol observers viewed Fitzgerald's election as a compromise move, aimed at blocking a deep split between liberal and conservative factions of the Democratic caucus.

He called on legislators to prevent a "decade of division" brought about by "indifferent officials," "self-serving politics" or continuously "archaic institutions."

Turmoil Rapped

"We had more than enough turmoil, more than enough disorder, more than enough violence," he said, but "the decade proved, in Michigan at least, that progress can come through the Establishment if it is made adequate to the times."

He called on legislators to prevent a "decade of division" brought about by "indifferent officials," "self-serving politics" or continuously "archaic institutions."

The Democratic caucus, Ryan said, reacted with "a fair amount of criticism" to his request for approval of a resolution by the House that would give him power to set up a schedule of acceptable expenses for travel to various parts of the country. Legislators would have to apply for permission and advances before setting out.

Under the present system, committee members simply present expense accounts after returning. They now receive use of travel charge cards as well.

In Marshall County, Miss., Supt. Staniey Malliken Sr. said his district could make the changes in time, "but it's going to tear up almost all phases of our school program." He said he thought the public school system "will be all black, except in one area of the country."

A crowd estimated by police at more than 1,000 marched on the home of U. S. Dist. Judge W. A. Bootle in Macon, Ga., Wednesday night, carrying a petition asking for the preservation of neighborhood schools and freedom of choice integration plans.

Admitted To Home

The decision, handed down by the court Wednesday on a 6-2 vote, reversed a ruling last Dec. 1 by the 5th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans, which gave the districts until Sept. 1 to desegregate.

"I don't know how we are going to do it in less than three weeks," Williams said.

Bessemer, Ala., School Supt. William F. Clark said he had "no earthly idea how the school system can completely mix by Feb. 1."

transfer by Feb. 26, but officials say these teachers will have to be given new transfer orders because the Supreme Court decision will mean more extensive desegregation.

INDICTED — Martin Sweig (above), former administrative assistant to House Speaker John W. McCormack, is under federal indictment on nine counts of perjury before a Grand Jury. Sweig, 46, is accused, among other things, of denying accepting cash payment for contacting U. S. Army officials on behalf of a client of an associate, and of denying knowing an underworld figure.

Other Proposals

He also called for:

—Quick resolution of the long-delayed issue of state aid to private and parochial schools.

—Approval of a State Commission on Investigations, by constitutional amendment, to pursue organized crime and public corruption.

—Action against a rapidly rising death rate from highway accidents through tougher state drunk driving laws.

—Separate councils on urban and rural affairs charged with providing outside supervision of the effectiveness of the state's 19 separate departments.

—Lowering the voting age to 18.

—An increase in the present $1.25 hourly minimum wage.

—Funds to build a minimum of 500,000 new low-cost homes in the next 10 years.

—State participation in federal, mass-trust development.

—Continued "highest priority" attention to improvement of environmental resources and recreational facilities.

Program Details Set

Specific programs in several areas would be detailed in later messages, Milliken said.

The governor's remarks to the legislature were drawn substantially from the more than 12,000-word, 33-page published message.

Milliken began by characterizing the "greatest event" of the decade past as "the reawakening of the American conscience" to the impact of war, riot and hunger on "the luxury of a quiet life."

Delta Ranks 3rd In Wholesaling

Delta County is the third leading county in the Upper Peninsula in wholesale trade, according to statistics released by the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce.

Figures were from the "1967 Census of Business-Wholesale Trade Statistics-Michigan" recently published by the Bureau of the Census, U.S. Dept. of Commerce, Washington.

Dickinson County paced the Upper Peninsula in wholesale trade, according to the report, with 67 wholesale establishments reporting sales of $53,391,000.

71 Businesses

Marquette County's 84 establishments had sales of $47,-

NMU Hearing Is Postponed

MARQUETTE — Northern Michigan University officials Wednesday postponed a hearing for 25 black students charged with violating the school's conduct code.

The students asked for the delay because of final examinations, which began Wednesday, according to Lowell G. Kafer, dean of students. He said the hearing, which was scheduled for Wednesday, would be held the week of Feb. 4.

The charges stem from a sit-in Dec. 17 in Kafer's office. The office was damaged and Allan Niemi, vice president of student affairs, allegedly was prevented from leaving for 40 minutes.

Plan New Method For Robison Case Investigation

LANSING (AP) — Col. Fredrick Davids, director of the State Police has recommended a "new and different" method of investigating the slayings of the Richard C. Robison family after a 15-month probe failed to produce warrants.

Davids, in Washington, D.C. attending a meeting of the International Association of Chiefs of Police said "we are definitely not going to let a case like this drop."

He said "we will, hopefully, have a statement next week, the attorney general and the county prosecutor will have a larger role to play in the investigation."

The Emmet County prosecutor, Donald C. Noggle decided Wednesday that there is "not sufficient evidence" to justify a murder warrant in the case.

Robison, his wife, and four children were found dead in June, 1968 at their summer home at Grand Hart. They lived in Lathrup Village outside Detroit.

State Airports Rate With Best

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's airport system rates first to fourth nationally in a number of major categories and overall is one of the finest in the country, reports James Ramsey, State Aeronautics director.

Ramsey spoke at a dinner in Lansing Wednesday night to mark the 40th anniversary of the creation of the commission.

"Although we are third in the number of airports with instrument approaches, Michigan's airports first in the percentage of airports at which instrument approaches can be made during adverse weather," Ramsey said.

He said 22 per cent of Michigan's airports have published instrument approaches compared to only 13 per cent for California and eight per cent for Texas.

Michigan is third in the nation in the number of publicly-owned airports with 127. California leads with 247 followed by Texas with 230.

Considering the square miles involved in each of the states, Michigan's coverage is much more extensive than the other two," he added.

Michigan is fourth in the nation in the number of airports with lighted and paved runways, Ramsey further reported.

Two Escanaba Students Will Receive Degrees

YPSILANTI — Michael Gaffner of 826 S. 15th St., and Jean St. Martin, 320 S. 11th St., both of Escanaba, are among 995 who will receive degrees at Eastern Michigan University on Sunday, Jan. 18.

Miss Martin will be awarded a Bachelor of Science degree and Mr. Gaffner a Bachelor of Arts degree.

It is anticipated that about 5,000 parents and other guests will witness the ceremonies in Bowen Field House.

Doctor Says: Women In Race With Animals Over 'Safe' Pill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A noted birth control specialist said today women are in a grim race with laboratory animals to determine the safety of the pill.

"The ultimate outcome of this race between dogs, monkeys and women can be anticipated by informed observers only with great apprehension and concern," Dr. Roy Hertz told the Senate monopoly subcommittee.

Hertz is chairman of the cancer task force of a Federal Food and Drug Administration advisory panel that twice has reported on the growing number of suspected hazards in taking oral contraceptives.

Testifying on the second day of hearings into the safety of oral contraceptives, Hertz said it might take years to confirm suspected links between the pill and cancer of the breast and uterus.

But he said it would be a "rare circumstance indeed" that would cause him to prescribe most current pills.

Hertz said much early testing of the pill had been misinterpreted. He blamed fear of the population explosion and drug industry pressure for creating a worldwide enthusiasm that hampers "truly comprehensive and objective evaluation of its merits and demerits."

Although Hertz made only passing reference to the drug industry, another witness blamed the drug makers for dispensing "untruthful and dangerous advice."

Dr. Edmund Kassouf, identified by subcommittee spokesmen as one of the first American practitioners to suspect serious side effects from the pill, said pamphlets given consumers failed to take note of studies definitely linking oral contraceptives to fatal blood clotting and other disorders.

Kassouf also accused the American Medical Association of having a "puzzling" record on birth control pills, refusing to publish or take note of some critical reports.

In testifying on the risk of cancer, Hertz singled out the widely used synthetic female hormone estrogen and said the overwhelming mass of studies had showed it caused cancer in mice, rats, rabbits, hamsters and dogs.

It is also to be noted that all chemicals known to produce tumors in man such as aniline dyes, arsenic, coal tar and thiomium also produce tumors in experimental animals and frequently in the same site," Hertz said.

Estrogen, virtually abandoned in Britain after a recent report linked it directly to fatal blood clotting, is used in about half the birth control pills prescribed for the estimated 8.5 million American users.

Weather Chills Body-Freeze Talk

HOUGHTON (AP) — Robert C. Ettinger had a particularly receptive audience Tuesday night when students at Michigan Technological University came out in sub-zero weather to hear his lecture on body freezing.

Ettinger, author of "The Prospect of Immortality," is a recognized leader of the "freeze-weight reanimate" movement.

His appearance was part of the university's concert-lecture series.

Club Manager

EAST LANSING (AP) — Loyal Milligan, a 1948 graduate in hotel administration for Michigan State University, has been named manager of the new MSU faculty club building to be completed this fall. Milligan, 47, has more than 20 years of experience as manager of clubs and hotels in five states.

"SMILING" JIM DRISCOLL, an East Lansing businessman, has announced his intention to oppose Gov. William G. Milliken in the Republican gubernatorial primary. Driscoll criticized what he termed "the muddled thinking" on the part of the present Republican administration and advocated a "businessman's" approach to solving state problems. (AP Wirephoto)

'Odd Couple' Cast Named By Players

Starring in the roles of the "Odd Couple," Oscar Madison and Felix Ungar, are Richard Hanson and Harold Olson, respectively, Players de Noc is announced today.

Featuring as the four poker players, Roy, Vinnie, Speed, and Murray are Phil Peterson, Richard Marenger, Richard Puglisi, and Glenn Berger. Gwendolyn Pigeon will be played by Cherry Curtis and her sister, Cecily, by Penelope Jensen.

The story revolves around long-standing buddies, Oscar and Felix. The play opens with the regular Friday night poker game in session, but — Felix is missing!

When he finally appears, we learn that he has been evicted by his wife and has been bumbling about New York City deciding to "end it all."

The attempts of the fellows to offer advice and sympathy ends up in festive fiasco. Oscar convinces Felix that two can live better than one and that's when the fun really begins.

Meeting the Pigeon sisters, who provide feminine spice to the situation when they are invited to the "pad" as dinner guests, leads to even more hilarity.

Coralie Puglisi directs the show which will be presented Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, Feb. 23, 24, 26, 27 & 28 at The Terrace.

Tickets will go on sale the first week of February with locations and prices to be announced.

Ford Announces Plant Shutdowns To Pare Overstock

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co., the only member of the automotive Big Three with a car sales increase over 1968, joined General Motors and Chrysler Wednesday in announcing plant shutdowns to pare inventories.

Both Chrysler and GM had plants shut down this week but Ford's layoffs were the first for the model year.

Ford, whose sales were up about one per cent over 1968, said the layoffs of 10,500 hourly workers were designed "to balance assemblies in line with present inventories."

A Ford spokesman said 2,000 employees would be laid off at the firm's Metuchen, N.J., assembly plant, for Thursday and Friday.

Some 3,800 employees will be out of work next Monday and Jan. 23 when Ford closes its Dearborn, Mich., assembly plant. Another 2,900 will be idled at a St. Louis, Mo., facility Jan. 23 and 1,800 more will be out at San Jose, Calif., Jan. 22-23.

Ford said the truck line at San Jose will not be affected.

Ford's new car retail deliveries of 175,503 last month brought the firm's entire 1969 sales by dealers to 2,332,104, up one per cent over 1968.

Students must maintain at least a B average and carry a full academic load to make the list. Students named include:

Cornell — Mary L. Ring, teacher education.

Escanaba — Francis C. Anderson, business; Michael J. Beck, general education; Jean L. Killmar, business; Rene J. Robitaille, technical and applied arts; Raymond J. Young, general education.

Trenerry — Bruce W. Bucholtz, teacher education.

Manistique — Janet F. Archey, technical and applied arts; Robert J. Males, pharmacy.

Daggett — Robert R. Paulson, business.

Gwinn — Richard H. Copley, pharmacy.

Work Study Funds Are Granted LSSC

SAULT STE. MARIE — A $32,891 grant has been awarded Lake Superior State College by the Office of Education, of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, for a six-months work-study program.

The program aids college students who need a job to help pay for the expenses for the school year. Students may work up to 15 hours per week during the school year, while attending class full time, and up to 40 hours per week during the summer vacation under this program.

NMU Doctor Took Long Way To U.P.

MARQUETTE — Dr. Robert White, a staff doctor in Northern Michigan University's Health Center, took anything but the direct route in arriving in the Upper Peninsula.

With job experiences ranging from a sanitation engineer to a medical doctor, and with travel which took him from the United States to the Panama Canal Zone, to Belgium, to the Congo and back to America, Dr. White spent considerable time seeking out what he wanted in life.

When he entered the University of Michigan, he thought he knew the career he wanted, earning bachelor's and master's degrees in engineering.

Upon graduation, he accepted a job as a sanitation engineer. But, at 28, he discovered that what he really wanted to be was a doctor.

Returns To School

And so he returned to school, going on to earn his medical credentials.

"I did my internship in the Panama Canal Zone," White recalled. "It was during this time that I decided to become a medical missionary. "My wife and I have always been keenly interested in helping underprivileged children."

Having applied to become a missionary in the Congo, White had to return to school again, this time in Belgium, where he studied tropical medicine for one year.

After completing the course, which was taught only in the French language, it was off to the Congo for the young doctor and his family.

Mud Hut Hospital

"My first hospital in the Congo was nothing more than a mud hut," White noted. "There was just one American nurse and myself for 300,000 people in the district."

During the three years White spent in this far off land, he supervised the building of a new 120-bed hospital. He also trained natives to operate the 14 outlying hospitals in the district.

Later, White was sent to a 250-bed hospital near the coast of the Congo, where his primary duty was to train 90 natives to become doctors.

City Notes Aid To Area Schools

The extent of cooperation by the City of Escanaba with the Escanaba Area Schools runs into a considerable money figure, according to a report released today by City Manager George Harvey.

The report was made public after the city received from the school board a resolution relating to the question of financing crossing guards at certain intersections in the city.

The school board on Tuesday night adopted a resolution in share the cost of the crossing guards.

The city manager's report listed costs the city had incurred, largely in the area of special assessments for street, sidewalk, and utilities extensions for a period beginning in 1966.

At a cost of slightly over $20,000 for improvements and services benefiting the schools, the report lists a sidewalk at the John Lemmer School, water mains, sewers, street paving, at other locations, and the removal of a building to help clear a school-owned area.

There were other costs listed, including $4,556 for items such as basketball standards at the Webster School, equipment at the Jefferson School, the Webster tennis court, and a marching fund at the Jefferson School.

In addition, Harvey noted street striping to serve school areas, and the cooperation of police officers in driver education training and in school safety patrols.

"The above study of direct cash contributions to the school system by the local taxpayer is cursory in nature," Harvey said. "It is not all inclusive, nor in any way does it reflect the total contributions that the taxpayer makes to the school system. Police and fire protection, street care, and all other municipal benefits are extended to the schools at the expense of the taxpayer."

Special rates on utility services are applied to the school bills, and frankly, these rates would be hard to justify from many standpoints. As an example our school rates save just the Senior High School approximately $2,000 per annum," Harvey continued.

"I have always advocated a 'pay for what you receive' method of conducting city affairs, but that theory works two ways," he concluded.

Meeting Asked

A meeting between the City Council and the School Board, perhaps with representatives of area school districts also present, might be helpful in bringing about better understanding on cooperative projects and programs, says City Manager Harvey.

"Inasmuch as this is an area school, perhaps a member from the Township Board of Wells, Ford River and Cornell should be present," he added.

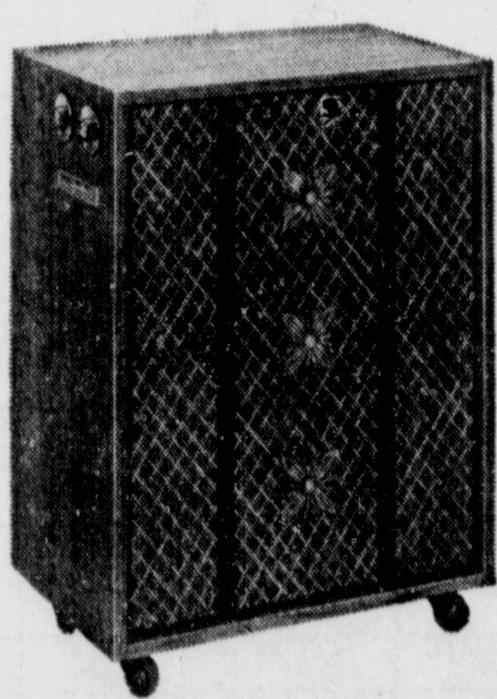

Meetings have been held in the past and perhaps they "are in order" now to "keep the channels of communication open," Harvey said.

which it noted that "traffic control is the responsibility" of the municipality; that the Board of Education "assumes the responsibility for refraining from deficit financing as prohibited by law," and:

"Therefore be it resolved that the Common Council of the City of Escanaba, County of Delta, provide for adequate crossing protection at those intersections where danger to school students seems most imminent."

The city had proposed to the school board that the schools

College Board To Seek Economies On Building

The Board of Trustees of Bay de Noc Community College will consult with low bidders on the proposed Health Education Convocation building for the college's new campus to determine whether or not design modifications might be made to reduce the cost.

Bids for the building were opened last week and the low bid was about $110,000 over preliminary estimates of cost by Daverman Associates, the architects.

Discussion of the bids was in order to motivate students to have pride and high morale in attending Bay de Noc Community College.

"While we are well assured that the quality of learning at the college is known to be high by all of the people involved, the general public, including parents and new students, often judges a college by its physical facilities," Rinehart said. "Reports of accrediting agencies have stressed this necessity."

Legislation Backed

In other action, the board endorsed legislation proposed by the Department of Education, which would help to extend full community college service to students not presently residing in community college districts. The proposed legislation is called a charge-back procedure in which costs could be reduced to non-resident students in return for receiving supplementary payments from the sending intermediate school districts.

Contracts between the college and St. Francis Hospital and other agencies providing clinical experience for practical nursing students and on-the-job experience for technical and occupational students were approved. The board also approved a proposal for offering of a six-week course in nurse aide training, which would be offered for unemployed persons referred from the Community Action Agency, the employment offices, and other related agencies. Another contract approved by the board would provide consulting services to the Central Upper Peninsula Economic Development District.

The Board received reports on continuing education activities, and approved installation of snow melting equipment on the Classroom-Library Building on the new campus.

Controls Needed

The debate over a city snowmobile ordinance has shifted to Gladstone and while local snowmobile owners voiced strong objections to the proposed ordinance Monday night the ultimate prospect is that Gladstone is going to have to adopt some form of control.

Snowmobiles simply are becoming too numerous to allow them to run at will throughout a residential and business community.

The City of Munising probably was the first in the Upper Peninsula to adopt a snowmobile ordinance, but since then nearly every municipality of any size in the U. P. has been faced with the problem. Escanaba's ordinance, while difficult to enforce, was placed on the books last year. Iron Mountain adopted an ordinance and Kingsford is considering one.

There are points on both sides of the question — the desire of owners to use their expensive machines as conveniently as possible on one hand and the nuisance and property damage caused on the other — but the overpowering argument is one of safety.

Newsapers in the Upper Peninsula have been full of police reports this winter on snowmobile accidents. Many people have been seriously injured. Some have been killed.

An accident in Marquette Monday night serves to dramatize the situation.

In that one, two boys, ages 10 and 15, were critically hurt when the snowmobile on which they were riding collided headon with a jeep-type vehicle on a city street. Police said the snowmobile was running in the traffic lane and the vehicle turned a corner into the same lane. Fortunately, no accidents quite that serious have been reported on the streets of Escanaba or Gladstone, but there is no immunity from them in this area unless operation of the machines on thoroughfares designed for automobiles and trucks is strictly restricted.

Snowmobiles are too powerful, too fast and their use is too unrestricted in the sense that practically anyone big enough — and this is a problem for parents — to see over the windshield can drive them. They also are too small to be seen by drivers of other vehicles. Snow banks in a city can hide a snowmobile until the last split second before a collision. Night operation complicates visibility problems and icy streets add to the difficulty of avoiding an accident, both for a snowmobile driver and for the driver of a car or truck.

Without restriction in a city, eventually there will be a serious accident involving a snowmobile. Even with restrictions there could be an accident. Some snowmobilers in Escanaba, for example, have ignored the ordinance and used their machines anyway. But at least the people will have been warned.

There may be some merit to allowing people to "walk" their machines to allowable areas and this is being considered in Gladstone as a compromise proposal between an "all or nothing" type of law, but failure on the part of the City Commission to adopt some type of ordinance at this point could only amount to official sanction of use of city streets by the machines.

The Family Lawyer

Making Junior Pay

Six-year-old Jeff, playing cowboys with his cronies, was annoyed by the arrival of a neighbor's four-year-old daughter.

"I'll take care of her," he announced, and gave her a hard shove. The little girl fell over, broke her arm, and later — through her parents — filed a damage suit against Jeff. Despite the boy's tender years, the court rendered a sizeable judgment against him.

It may seem strange to saddle a youngster with such an obligation. But it is no longer rare for a child to be collectible. Perhaps he has money of his own. Perhaps his family has a liability insurance policy that includes coverage for him. Or perhaps the claimant will keep the judgment hanging over the child's head for years, until he grows older and begins to earn wages.

In any event, in the eyes of the law, mere youthfulness alone does not ordinarily prevent liability. Most courts feel that since the loss must fall upon someone, and since parents often cannot be held responsible, it is fairer to let the loss fall upon the guilty child than upon his innocent victim.

Nevertheless, youthfulness may indeed be a defense if the circumstances show a lack of wilful purpose. For example:

A four-year-old boy wrapped his arms around the legs of a woman visitor, causing her to topple over and suffer injuries. But in a court hearing that followed, the evidence showed that the hug was a gesture of pure affection. Thereupon the court ruled in the child's favor, because even though his act was intentional, it was not meant to do any harm.

Nor is a child likely to be held liable if the bodily contact is not intentional at all, but simply part of the normal, playful exuberance of childhood.

Thus, in another case, a schoolboy was held not liable when he accidentally collided with another pupil while playin' tag. The court said:

"We should not wish to make it necessary for children to stand about the schoolyard with folded hands for fear they might negligently brush against one of their fellows, and become liable for heavy damages."

A groundbreaking ceremony for a highway which will cost $4,200,000 was held near the Candlelight Club outside Ontonagon. Known as the Greenland Road, the highway is in poor condition, with innumerable depressions and a crown which frequently sends vehicles off course. Construction, to be started as soon as possible, will provide a new 18-mile route into the village of Ontonagon.

SPARE A MATCH?

Luring Drop-Outs Back 'Matter Of Motivation'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

As readers of this column know, I do not share the fashionable animus against U. S. businessmen. They want to save the country more than most people.

Every time I hear of a program that promises success in training disadvantaged people for a productive life, it turns out that business is at the back of it. The businessman has a much better record here than the professional do-gooder.

There is the case of the industrial arts department at New York City's Louis D. Brandeis High School on the Upper West Side. The high school is some distance from Harlem, so when Brandeis is described as a "Harlem" school it is a bit perplexing. Through some quirk in the law, however, Tony D'Amico, the chairman of the Brandeis industrial arts department, is permitted to enroll Harlem drop-outs, mainly Negro and Puerto Rican, in his courses. This makes it a "Harlem" school.

This Tony D'Amico is an earthy man, a crack tool-maker who quit a good money-making profession to get the necessary teacher training required in the New York public school system. Despite the relatively poor, pay, he gets a compensatory kick out of teaching. What he wanted to do was to bring real "relevance" to kids who couldn't connect the ordinary academic, or liberal arts, courses with the amorphous but demanding thing called "life."

He worked out a deal with the Shell Oil Co. (which was already backing Negroes as service station proprietors) to combine a service station mechanic's course with the final years of ordinary high school education. Shell provided the mock-up automobile engine and wiring systems, the professional work books, the testing equipment. It also promised some summer employment, and the possibility of real jobs after graduation. And a nearby police precinct offered to let the students work on police cars that needed tune-ups.

The word was spread in Harlem and in the Upper West Side, and drop-outs began to return to school. Since he was a professional toolmaker, used to metal working of all kinds,

"Why don't you do it for real, man?" asked Tony. "You wash that back window. And you tell me why."

The student said something about courteous service. To which Tony added, "You don't clean the glass so he can see. You clean it to get his business." Coming as they do from a hard-knocks environment, the Harlem kids laughed delightedly.

Tony D'Amico's enthusiasm has spread to the English and mathematics teachers who handle his students in the supporting liberal arts courses. Seeking a relevant text, Mrs. Tina Houk and Miss Anna Grabarits have had the aspiring mechanics reading a book called "John Leveron, Auto Mechanic." It wasn't written for school use, but Mrs. Houk and Miss Grabarits have managed to jump the reading skill level of some of the more backward students by a couple of years just by getting them interested in a story.

The mathematics teacher, Miss Marion Wagner, found herself with students who had not yet mastered decimals. She had to get it across to her neophyte service station operators that they would be short-changing themselves if they were to confuse a nickel with a 50 cent piece, or a dollar with a ten dollar bill.

The mysteries of the decimal point vanished abruptly once this lesson had been driven home. More complex arithmetical operations became clear when Miss Wagner started using service station daily work sheets which totalled gasoline sales, oil filter sales, and cigarette and soft drink machine tallies as the basis for her calculations.

Curiously, or maybe not so curiously, some of the drop-outs who went back to school to learn a practical skill at Brandeis have actually gone on to college.

D'Amico tells of one of his who, after working at summer service station jobs and completing his Brandeis course, got a four-year scholarship at the University of Chicago.

"It's just a matter of restoring motivation," says Tony

2 ♠	2 ♠	Pass	4 ♠

Opening lead — two of hearts.

When play commences, the highest card of each suit is the ace. As play progresses, other cards assume dominant rank as the higher ones are used up.

This natural process of promotion occurs in nearly every deal and is easy enough to keep track of when the promoted cards are honors. However, it occasionally becomes difficult to follow when apparently insignificant cards suddenly rise in value and assume the very highest stature.

A lowly five proved decisive in today's hand. South got to four spades and West led his singleton heart.

East took the queen with the ace and returned a low heart, trumped by West with the six. West led back a club and East won with the ace and played the jack of hearts.

South had to follow with the ten and West made the fine defensive play of ruffing with the nine to force dummy's jack.

Declarer had lost three tricks and now had to avoid a trump loser to make the contract. He led the queen of spades from dummy. When East covered with the king, he won it with the ace, West showing out.

South returned to dummy with a diamond and led the seven of spades. But East, who had carefully observed his partner's play of both the six and the nine, covered the seven with the eight, forcing South's ten, and thus promoted his five into the highest trump. Declarer had only the 4-3-2 left and went down one.

It would not have helped declarer to lead the seven instead of the queen, because East would have covered with the eight to assure himself of a later trump trick.

Looking at East's hand, you wouldn't think that his five of spades would become the setting trick after two rounds of trumps had been played, but that is precisely what happened.

TELEPHONE BUREAUCRACY

BHOPAL, India (P) — Seven thousand persons in this south Indian town who have been waiting three years for phone connections were informed that although the system is finished, they would have to wait until Prime Minister Indira Gandhi or a member of her cabinet comes to town to dedicate the system, before it is put into use.

The mathematics teacher, Miss Marion Wagner, found herself with students who had not yet mastered decimals. She had to get it across to her neophyte service station operators that they would be short-changing themselves if they were to confuse a nickel with a 50 cent piece, or a dollar with a ten dollar bill.

Ann Landers

Trapped Housewife Wants To Be Alone

Dear Ann Landers: If you can get me out of this, you are a magician. I know it's my own fault, so please don't give me Hail Columbia. Just help me.

I'm a quiet person who minds her own business and stays to herself, but I let the woman next door get too friendly. I am so sick of her big mouth I could scream. I used to wonder how women could visit during the day and still get their housework done. Now I know the answer. These slobs don't do any housework, which is why they have so much time to pester those of us who do.

What really makes me furious is the way she brings all her cooking and baking mistakes over here for us to eat. I'm fed up with her burned pastries and overcooked spaghetti. Yesterday it was a pudding that didn't jell. She said, "Here's your dessert for tonight. I must have left something out but it tastes fine. Drink it."

Please, Ann, tell me how to cool off the friendship without slamming the door in her face. She has made me so nervous I yell at my children and am nasty to my husband. Help! — Trapped In My Own Home

Dear Trapped: Go to your doctor and let him tell you need more rest. Inform your friend of the doctor's orders. Tell her you lie down at frequent intervals and that she can't come over uninvited. Say, "I'll call you when I'm feeling better." And when you are feeling better and think perhaps you ought to give her a call, "just to be nice," take out this column and read it again.

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in the study you cited recently which showed an unusually high achievement level of children born to young mothers and old fathers. (Especially male children.)

I am currently involved in another study which explains this fascinating "phenomenon." The reason the child is precocious and tends to be an achiever is because the mother feels closer to the child than to her husband. Consequently, she spends an inordinate amount of time with him.

The child, as a result of this close relationship, may be an achiever, but he pays for his achievement in other ways. He is usually emotionally immature and hung-up on his mother. This makes him a poor candidate for marriage. Better Mom should have married someone in her own group and not have the kid turn out to be a superstar. Please keep plugging for everything in its own season. — Turn Turn Turn

Dear Turn: Your assumption that the young mother spends an inordinate amount of time with her son because he is closer to her age than the old faculty will be in charge.

Fr. Thompson Is Elected V.P. By Priests Senate

MARQUETTE — Fr. William Richards, pastor of Sacred Heart parish in Ewen, was re-elected president of the Priests' Senate of the Marquette Catholic Diocese, at a meeting at the Catholic Student Center of Northern Michigan University.

Fr. Richards served on the committee that formed the Senate Constitution, and was first elected Senator in 1967. After being re-elected in 1969, he was named president.

Fr. Arnold Thompson, pastor of St. Thomas parish in Escanaba, was elected vice-president. Fr. Donald Zanon, a

Sabotage Hinted At Atomic Plant

WASHINGTON (AP) — Destruction of equipment at a major Atomic Energy Commission plant in Colorado has raised suspicions of sabotage and prompted an intensive, round-the-clock investigation by federal agents, according to government informants.

Present at the meeting were two newly-elected Senators and three re-elected members. Beginning their two-year terms were Fr. Thompson and Fr. Leslie Perino, pastor of St. Mary's of Rockland. Re-elected for two-year terms were Fr. James McCarthy, pastor of St. Ignatius Loyola in Houghton, Fr. James Donnelly, rector of Marygrove Center for Christian Renewal, Garden, and Fr. Zanon.

The senate heard a progress report from a committee studying the Diocesan newspaper, evaluated a survey on the use of the Family Enrichment program materials, and received a committee report on the vocation program in the diocese.

The Most Rev. Bishop Charles A. Salatka, who attended the Senate meeting, explained the procedures of the Provincial Conciliation-Arbitration Board to the Senate members and asked for suggested names to serve on the board for the Diocese of Marquette.

Members of the Personnel Commission of the Diocese were appointed to assist the Bishop in assessing the needs of the Diocese and making recommendations for clergy appointments.

Elected to serve on this commission were:

Rev. James McCarthy of Houghton as temporary chairman, Rev. T. P. Dunleavy of Bark River, Rev. Milton Vanitvelt of Birch Creek, Rev. Matt Nyman of Sault Ste. Marie, Rev. Vincent Ouellette of Schafer, Rev. Robert Cordy of Negauan and Rev. John Landreville of Marquette.

The Priests' Senate is established by the Bishop of the Diocese and its Constitution states as its purpose "to promote dialogue between the Bishop and his priests as well as among the priests themselves."

Anything pertaining to the needs of the pastoral work and the good of the Diocese may be an object of its deliberations. The Senators are elected to serve on the Senate from priests who have been nominated from five distinct groups established by seniority and one group comprised of religious-order of priests.

Last Lake Ships Reach Erie Port

LORAIN, Ohio (AP) — Two U.S. Steel Corp. iron ore carriers plowed through the Lake Erie ice into Lorain Harbor with the aid of a coast guard icebreaker Wednesday to end the longest Great Lakes ore shipping season on record.

The Philip R. Clarke and the Irving S. Olds made it into harbor at 4 p.m. after an all-day battle through ice in the western end of the lake. The Coast Guard icebreaker MacKinaw helped every foot of the way.

The worst ice of the entire trip apparently was a big ridge that had formed across the entrance to Lorain Harbor. The icebreaker was able to break through only after several tries.

The MacKinaw was expected to return to her home port of Cheboygan, Mich.

Car Accident Ends Peace Corps Dream

By The Associated Press

Marilyn McKay wanted "to give of herself before she settled down to her own life." Martha Merrill "constantly felt she wasn't doing enough," said her mother, Mrs. Robert A. Merrill, in Tucson.

Mrs. Merrill said she was thinking of establishing a scholarship in her daughter's name for someone who could not afford to go to college.

"She had a great feeling toward colored people and I had not thought much about this feeling," she said. "I think possibly the scholarship could go to a colored person, but maybe it should go to anybody deserving."

Mrs. Merrill is survived by her parents: a sister, Ruth, 24, and a brother, Robert, 19.

Susan Davey was "very altruistic" and "wanted to be of service to people," recalled her sister-in-law, Mrs. Michael Davay, in Chicago. She said Susan spoke of working in the Chicago slums after her service with the Peace Corps.

After graduating from Northeastern Illinois State University in August, 1968, Susan served as a substitute teacher in the Chicago public school system while awaiting her call from the Peace Corps.

Doctors reported that tests showed food and drink aboard the Oransay to be free of typhoid, a highly contagious disease usually transmitted through food or water.

Four crewmen were hospitalized in San Francisco and two others in Los Angeles, all with confirmed cases of typhoid. Seventeen other crewmen and one passenger were hospitalized here Wednesday, but none was confirmed as having the disease.

Another brother and one sister also live in Chicago, a second sister lives in Boston.

Details of the accident in Kenya are not available. The university student killed with the girls was identified only as a "Mr. Patel."

The accident was the first triple volunteer fatality since the Peace Corps was established nine years ago. Twenty-nine other volunteers have died in service.

The captain said there had been no alarm among the passengers.

King Memorial Dedication Set

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Dedication ceremonies for the Martin Luther King Memorial Center here today head up nationwide activities observing the 41st anniversary of the Negro leader's birth.

The $10 million center, originally planned as a library for King's papers and other documents of the civil rights movement, is being expanded into a center of knowledge, history and culture of the black people.

The facility will be built in two locations, a downtown complex and another near Atlanta University. The downtown complex will include restoration of King's birthplace, the nearby Ebenezer Church and a memorial park, where King will be entombed.

According to J. W. Wright, Michigan State University forestry professor, the new hybrid cross between Austrian pine and Japanese red pine shows promise for use in pulpwood operations and in roadside plantings.

The hybrid was first discovered in 1961 by MSU foresters at the W. K. Kellogg Forest near Battle Creek. Hybrid trees were growing naturally in an open area between mature stands of Japanese red pine and Austrian pine. "These hybrids show excellent growth," says Wright, "growing much faster than either parental species."

Other characteristics which make the hybrid potentially useful include earlier reproduction, good recovery from transplanting shock and the possibility of tolerance to salt. "Salt tolerance is important for roadside trees because of the large quantities of salt we use on the freeways for snow control," says Wright.

that the fire was not sparked by natural causes.

"But two months after the fire," he added, "a series of things began to break out, not serious but troublesome things, very troublesome. And somebody's got to be doing it."

This source would not describe the incidents more fully, saying only that they occurred in such a way as to indicate sabotage was involved.

AEC officials have acknowledged that production of some types of nuclear warhead components for U.S. missiles was halted by the fire.

But the agency said all production deadlines can be met if the plant can be made operational by April. Congress has allocated $45 million for the repairs.

Work stoppages also have plagued construction of a $75 million expansion to the Rocky Flats plant. One official said there were a dozen walkouts last year, including one which kept 140 sheet metal workers off their jobs for more than a month. Another walkout in November involved 1,000 members of the Teamsters Union.

However, a source familiar with the current investigation said "we have no reason to believe the problems are related to any labor difficulties."

Mrs. Merrill said she was thinking of establishing a scholarship in her daughter's name for someone who could not afford to go to college.

income taxes also were included.

Substitute Defeated

The substitute was defeated but remained on the House Calendar for possible action in 1970.

"I trust that with this revised credit formula you will abandon your efforts to pass an income tax rate increase," Milliken said.

He argued that the credit revision would postpone until April 1971 any impact on individuals, whereas an income tax increase need total only half of the 0.4 per cent rate and others included in the House bill.

"It needs to be emphasized that such action should be prompt," the governor said, "since each month that the effective date of such increase is delayed beyond April 1, 1970 results in a loss of $5.5 million.

Noting, however, that his recommendations may be disregarded by the Legislature, Milliken said an income tax increase need total only half of the 0.4 per cent rate and others included in the House bill.

"It needs to be emphasized that such action should be prompt," the governor said, "since each month that the effective date of such increase is delayed beyond April 1, 1970 results in a loss of $5.5 million.

Tips That Cut Telephone Bills

By BOB GREGG

How would you like to use your telephone as much as you do now and pay less for your phone bill? Impossible? Not really.

You're about to be given some concrete tips on how to cut your phone bill—and still satisfy frequent urges to chat with friends and relatives and transact business over the phone.

In our area, only persons who live in Escanaba can dial long distance direct. When dialing long distance direct avoid "slap-dash" dialing and clock your calls.

Always be careful how you dial. One wrong digit could show up as a 3-minute long distance charge on your next phone bill.

Wrong Number

If you do get a wrong number: Don't mumble obscenities to yourself about the phone company and impatiently dial again. Call the operator immediately and ask her to credit your account.

Persons who dial long distance frequently should keep an accurate timer or clock near the phone to warn them when the first three minutes is up. After that phone bills get very expensive.

A long distance phone call from Escanaba to Chicago, for instance, costs 90 cents for the first three minutes on an average day. For every minute over the cost runs 25 cents. This can add up to $6.40 for a 25-minute conversation.

Another good tip for long distance dialers, if it's possible, jot down all the points you wish to discuss before making your call. Also remember that even if you're only one second over on your call, you're charged with a full minute unit.

Good luck now, and think about that phone call before you make it.

less it's very good. A wrong number, on a long distance call, costs you money if you don't notify the phone company about your mistake.

Train Children Train your children to realize the phone is not a toy. Children "fiddling around with phones" have made expensive long distance calls. Remember, if your child accidentally makes one of these expensive calls—you're responsible.

If you make a lot of calls keep a list of where you called, when you called and how much time you spent talking. Telephone companies are as likely as anyone else to make billing errors. Protect yourself.

Another thing to watch out for is someone else charging their phone calls to your number. In many instances telephone companies allow unknown individuals to charge calls to their home phone numbers. Some of these persons who charge calls turn out to be a little dishonest—they give the wrong number, and that number could be yours!

Here's a final tip. When you dial long distance make sure that if you have to talk with a particular party you call person-to-person. Otherwise, you will be charged for every call you make trying to get a hold of the individual.

Good luck now, and think about that phone call before you make it.

High Prices, Taxes, Interest Keeps 'Quarterbacks' On Edge

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Battered by high interest rates, prices and taxes, the average American has been forced to scramble like a threatened quarterback in order not to lose yardage in the old game of making ends meet.

Evidence of this is clear, and it tends to undermine the assumption widely held that somehow, for some reason, the ordinary consumer has been able to live easily with inflation and even to ignore government anti-inflation measures.

Not so. In 1969 there was considerable trading down in big ticket merchandise and postponement of many purchases. There was a surge in borrowing on life insurance policies. Credit unions reported loans outpaced savings.

While Americans were feeling very confident of their purchasing power they bought a lot of red meat and, allegedly, that is the reason beef prices rose early in the year. That appetite tapered off later, and so did red meat prices.

Ask any small banker if there wasn't a reaction. Small investors discovered in recent months such things as U.S. Treasury bills and municipal bonds yielded greater returns than bank account interest. And so they bought them.

A record of $252 million was drained from accounts in the nation's 500 mutual savings banks in December. These banks are limited by law to granting a rate of interest that now hardly matches inflation.

Once content to leave his money in the bank, the small investor withdrew it in 1969 for bigger returns.

The impact on the banks is quite observable as they offer wrist watches, can openers, toasters, luggage, clocks, radios, blankets, pots and pans, knives and forks and whatnot for new accounts.

Ask the big insurance companies if there hasn't been an impact. By November, loans on life insurance policies had soared to $13.58 billion, an increase of about $2.36 billion in one year. Such borrowing is the least expensive of all.

Perhaps the most pronounced effect is observed in retail sales.

Preliminary reports by the Commerce Department indicate that although there were more Americans to buy in 1969 than in 1968, there really wasn't any commensurate increase in sales.

It is possible that the retail sales figures might appear larger. But then they have to be discounted by about 5 per cent to bring the price inflation out of them.

The tendency toward trading down and postponing seemed to grow stronger as 1969 wore on.

Winter Season For The Birds

By BOB VOGES

LANSING (AP) — Now is the time for all good people to come to the aid of their birds.

But if you start feeding the wild birds during this bitter winter weather, keep it up, advises Vic Janson, bird expert with the State Department of Natural Resources.

Once they find a feeder, the birds are likely to become dependent upon it, Janson explained. If the food supply is suddenly shut off, the birds could starve.

"It is always hard for them to find food when there is snow on the ground," Janson said. "During cold weather they don't like to move around a lot."

Wild birds like shelter near the feeder, Janson said. He suggested Christmas trees—if they already haven't been thrown out—could be placed near the feeder to offer some cover.

Suet and fat supply the high energy birds need in cold weather.

As another tip, Janson said, a greater variety of food will attract a larger number of exotic species.

"If you only throw out bread crumbs, all you are likely to get are sparrows," he warned.

A grain elevator is a good source for bird seed. Bird seed mixes sold in most grocery stores also are a good bet. Sunflower seeds always are popular with the birds.

"The sunflower seeds are too large for some birds," Janson added. "That's why you need a feeder that is designed for them."

Ford Plans Plant To Fight Pollution

DETROIT (AP)—Ford Motor Co., which recently announced it would go all-out in a campaign to cut down automotive air pollution, said Wednesday it will build a $7.5-million carburetion engineering facility as part of that program.

Lee A. Iacocca, president of Ford North American Automotive Operations, said the new laboratory in suburban Dearborn "will provide greatly improved facilities for our extensive carburetion engineering and research program."

Construction is due to start in March with completion set for a year later, he said.

"In particular, the new facility will aid our continuing efforts to meet current and future government standards for vehicle emissions," said Iacocca.

Henry Ford II, chairman of the board of Ford Motor Co. said in December the problem of combatting automotive air pollution was one of the most significant that the auto industry faced. He urged other auto firms to join Ford in the clean air fight.

Junior High Program Remodeling Asked

A recommendation that a facilities for rehearsal, class and storage area for band and vocal music departments; upgrade library facilities to serve both school and public needs; and centralize the junior high program which is now scattered among three schools.

Rev. Ingmar Levin, chairman of the board's advisory committee, made the presentation. The board will "hash over" the report and review the recommendations at their Feb. 24 meeting.

The recommendations include adequate facilities for a full program of physical education for both junior and senior high school students; improving the home economics facilities; provide a multi-use area for hot lunch, study, conferences, meetings; space for industrial arts and vocational programs;

Jahn Denies He Made Statement Quoted In Press

Norman W. Jahn, owner of Jahn's Saloon, Walnut St., has taken exception to a quotation credited to him in Tuesday's Daily Press report on the urban renewal public hearing conducted by the City Council of Manistique.

The public hearing ended with a heated exchange of charges by Jahn and John Anderson, 220 Oak St., directed at City Manager Robert Noe. Noe received a resolution of confidence from the City Council following the hearing.

Jahn said he did not say "we had a good town before Noe came here and we should get rid of him. The townships are all against him." He attributed these remarks to Anderson, who also spoke out against the proposed program. Jahn also said he did not "echo" Anderson's suggestion that Noe be fired.

Erin O'Brien, 17, Winner Of VFW Contest Title

Erin O'Brien has been named district winner in the Veterans of Foreign Wars "Voice of Democracy" contest. Her entry, "Freedom's Challenge," will now be entered in state competition.

Miss O'Brien, 17, is a senior at the Manistique High School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dell O'Brien, 422 Arbutus Ave.

Wood also asked that federal and state program funds be identified as such and be broken down for easier understanding.

Nelson assured Wood that "I'm sure we'll be able to devise a simpler form that everyone can understand."

Before adjourning, the board accepted a $5,000 grant from the Department of Education as partial reimbursement of the Community School Director's salary and approved Germfask teacher John Hanlon's request for sick leave pay to cover educational course reimbursement.

The board meets Jan. 20 at the Fairview School to discuss the Special Education program and will also tour the school.

Outdoor Sports

By Bob Gregg

The controversy still rages between U. P. hunters and the Department of Natural Resources over how to manage the U. P. deer herd. For years these two parties have been at each others throats. Why? Because they're both too stubborn to admit the other guy might have a worthwhile idea.

Certain hunter organizations say killing doe depletes the deer herd. The DNR says we must shoot a limited number of doe every year to balance the herd. They are both wrong.

Killing antlerless deer does not cause the deer population to drop. Fact is, is can only help to increase the size and quality of the herd. It is possible, however, to ban the doe season, kill hunters happy, and still maintain a balanced U. P. deer herd.

Every winter thousands upon thousands of U. P. deer starve to death in the woods. These animals should be harvested, otherwise their death is a tremendous waste. The DNR feels it is better to have the hunter harvest the deer instead of mother nature. That's why we have a doe season.

How should we harvest these excess deer without having a doe season? Simple. We shoot more bucks. It is a biological fact that even if we killed up to 90 per cent of the bucks every year (the current kill runs near 15 per cent) there would still be enough bucks around to produce enough fawns to propagate the herd.

How do we kill more bucks? We double the limit, allowing any hunter to take two bucks. We also open another firearm deer season. The best time for this "first" season would probably be in October. In order to give hunters a better chance we extend the fall season so that it lasts a full month.

"If hunters could kill more bucks in order to make up for the amount of doe that have been shot during recent antlerless deer seasons it wouldn't be necessary to have a doe season for, maybe, two years," said Joe Vogt, district game biologist for the DNR. Joe did say, however, that every two or three years some doe would have to be harvested in order to trim an increasing deer herd.

Vogt said he favored killing more bucks, but added that he did not believe U. P. hunters, even with a two-buck limit and a double season, could take more bucks than they do now. I think they can. How about giving it a try.

The deer herd population is governed by the amount of winter food available to it. If we take more bucks it will help the does to survive the winter in better condition. The females who are carrying fawns during this period, will have less competition for precious winter food.

A double "bucks only" season with an increased limit is a sound program for future hunting seasons in the U. P. In 1931, 29,730 hunters in the U. P. downed 14,620 bucks. This past season 115,000 estimated hunters shot 14,000 bucks. If you don't think the U. P. deer herd is in trouble these figures prove it.

It is clear that hunters want to shoot more bucks not more does so why not let them. Doe seasons have failed to balance the herd. This is proven by DNR figures which show at least 20,000 deer dying every winter in the U. P. These are excess deer that should have been harvested.

If a "bucks only" season is adopted it may be necessary, within a few years, to have a limited doe season to help cut down an overwhelming number of deer.

If area hunters want a ban on antlerless deer hunting give it to them. In order to balance the herd, however, they must be given a better opportunity to take more bucks. I suggest a two-buck limit and two seasons. Now don't get me wrong. I'm not a very good hunter, just average, and I'd probably fail a biology test, but I think it might work.

I know that a sportsman would get far more satisfaction out of getting an excellent chance at shooting a couple of bucks than gunning down a 70-pound fawn or a doe.

Unheralded Finkel Saves Celtics Against Pistons

By The Associated Press

For awhile Wednesday night, it looked as though the Detroit Pistons might be reaching for their fourth victory in a row—over last year's champs the Boston Celtics—but instead Detroit fell 123-118 in National Basketball Association play.

The Celtics caught the Pistons from behind as Henry Finkel, an unheralded replacement for Bill Russell, pulled it out for Boston.

In other NBA action Wednesday night, San Francisco dumped Atlanta 103-101 and Seattle thumped Philadelphia 122-110 in the opener of the Boston double-header in which the Pistons participated.

In American Basketball Association play, Dallas topped Pittsburgh 130-116, Carolina downed New York 112-107 and Washington trounced Los Angeles 134-117.

The Pistons were shoved under by the 7-foot Finkel, a virtual castoff picked up from San Diego when Russell retired last summer.

Finkel broke open the game in the fourth period when the Pistons drew within 109-108 with 18 seconds left.

Four minutes remaining.

Larry Siegfried scored on a layup and Finkel drove in for a layup on a pass from Bailey Howell.

Detroit scored four straight points to draw within one point again, 113-112, but Finkel took a pass from John Havlicek and scored on a layup to pull Boston out of danger.

The Pistons managed only 7 of 16 free throws in the final 12 minutes. The Celtics got 10 of 11 in the final period.

Dave Bing led the Pistons with 33 points, while Jimmy Walker hit 28 and Otto Moore got 20.

Lew Alcindor, given 10 shares of stock in the Milwaukee Bucks along with the other players, coaches and trainers, is doing his best to increase the value of the stock.

Alcindor poured in a club and Milwaukee Arena record 46 points Wednesday night as the Bucks edged the Los Angeles Lakers 115-113 to move within five games of idle, first-place New York in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division with their 16th victory in the fourth quarter.

Dave Bing led the Pistons with 33 points, while Jimmy Walker hit 28 and Otto Moore got 20.

Lew Alcindor, given 10 shares of stock in the Milwaukee Bucks along with the other players, coaches and trainers, is doing his best to increase the value of the stock.

The Pistons were shoved under by the 7-foot Finkel, a virtual castoff picked up from San Diego when Russell retired last summer.

Finkel broke open the game in the fourth period when the Pistons drew within 109-108 with 18 seconds left.

Four minutes remaining.

Larry Siegfried scored on a layup and Finkel drove in for a layup on a pass from Bailey Howell.

Detroit scored four straight points to draw within one point again, 113-112, but Finkel took a pass from John Havlicek and scored on a layup to pull Boston out of danger.

The Pistons managed only 7 of 16 free throws in the final 12 minutes. The Celtics got 10 of 11 in the final period.

Towering Gamecocks Edge Furman Cagers

By The Associated Press

South Carolina's towering Gamecocks overcame the Selvy mystique at Furman, but Philadelphia's imposing Paesler cast its spell on Calvin Murphy and Niagara.

South Carolina, the nation's third-ranked college basketball power, came from behind Wednesday night for a 59-56 victory over scrappy Furman, coached by former scoring wizard Frank Selvy and triggered by his youngest brother, Charles, who poured in 22 points.

At Philadelphia, Fran O'Hanlon provided the spark in the closing minutes as Villanova knocked off previously unbeaten Niagara 102-92 in the nightcap of a Paesler doubleheader. Georgetown beat St. Joseph's 89-80 in the opener.

Murphy, the 12th-ranked Purple Eagles' All-American marksman, scored 28 points against Villanova—two under his season average and four less than the winners' Howard Porter.

Ohio University, No. 14 in the country, trimmed Miami, Ohio, 71-61 and 18th ranked Louisville got by Dayton 77-69 in the only other games involving The Associated Press' Top Twenty.

At Greenville, S.C., the Gamecocks trailed Furman by as many as five points midway in the second half before rallying for their 12th victory in 13 games. John Roche, who hit for 23 points in all, paced the comeback along with 6-foot-10 strongboys Tom Owens and Tom Riker.

Owens grabbed the rebound off a missed Furman shot with 17 seconds left and then sank a free throw to wrap up the verdict. Riker contributed 17 points to the South Carolina attack.

O'Hanlon drove for twisting layup and followed up with free throws, touching off a Villanova spurt in the last three minutes that handed Niagara its first setback in 12 starts. The Wildcats' gifted guard wound up with 22 points, two more than teammate Chris Ford.

Ohio University, leading 27-26 at halftime, broke away to a 23-point bulge in the second half and breezed past Miami for a 10-2 season mark. Greg McDermott's 23 points led the Bobcats to their second Mid-American Conference victory against one loss. Bowling Green downed Kent State 73-67 to tie theledo Toledo for the MAC lead at 2-0.

Al Vilcheck's three-point play with two minutes remaining broke a 70-70 deadlock, helping Louisville, 8-2, subdue Dayton for Coach John Dromo's 50th career victory. Vilcheck topped the Cardinals with 20 points while Dayton's Ken May was high in the game with 30.

Seton Hall nipped American University 64-63 at South Orange.
